Rival Technologies Inc. – TRU Oiltech Commences Key Round of Tests

Las Vegas, Nevada, November 6, 2006 - Rival Technologies Inc., (Symbol RVTI) announced today its oil and gas subsidiary, TRU Oiltech is commencing a new and potentially groundbreaking series of tests on its TRU technology. Testing of the patent pending technology will be supervised by Dr. Pedro Pereira, an internationally recognized heavy oil expert, and Klaus Oehr, a founding partner and Director of Research and Development for TRU Oiltech. The tests will run for the next two weeks.

“We expect the tests to provide a major breakthrough for heavy oil and oil sands upgrading and establish the commercial viability of our technology, “ stated Robin J. Harvey, President of Rival Technologies Inc..

Rival Technologies Inc. with its subsidiary TRU Oiltech, are developing a proprietary process for upgrading heavy oil and oil sands bitumen, with the objective of significantly reducing production costs. The company’s strategy will be to license the process to producers in exchange for a capacity license fee and royalty payments.
